ConcreteCanoeRace2025

1. Every institution must assign two captains. These will be instructed in more detail during the captains' briefing at the event and are expected to inform their team members.

2. The competition consists of the following races:

3. The 50, 100 and 200 meter races will be divided into three different categories:

4. For the surprise event, only one canoe per team can participate, and the canoe should be able to hold three people. Two people are used for paddling, while the third person is there for the surprise event.

5. The general structure of the tournament consists of multiple stages in which multiple canoes compete at the same time.

6. In order to compete, the canoes must require the following:

- Comply with regulations¹
- Make a unique identifier visibly by name, number or paint

7. Canoes must be at their position at the start of the preceding race. The competition management may hand out penalties if a team does not comply with this rule. This can be in the form of a lowering in ranking, complete disqualification, or time penalties.

8. If a team makes a false start, does not stay in their lane, or causes obstruction in any other form, it is up to the competition management to decide on penalties. If a canoe of one team obstructs the canoe of another team, the race director has the freedom to decide if the obstructed team can advance to the next round, only if the obstructed team was on a KOers to advance. The decision of the competition management is final.

9. After the race, the track must be cleared immediately.

10. Communication between teams and competition organization must occur via the captains.

11. Prizes will be awarded to the top 3 fastest teams for each race category. Additional prizes are given based on the following aspects:

12. The canoe cannot be awarded a prize if it has not completed an entire race.

13. A team of experts within the concrete and construction industry will award prizes. The decisions made by the team of experts are final.

14. If applicable, instructions from the competition management regarding passing ships or other waterway users must be followed immediately regarding their and our safety.
